LINCOLN YARDS

Lincoln Yards: Where Chicago Connects.

Lincoln Yards is a vibrant new development that will connect Chicagoans to over 50 acres of riverfront sitting between some of the city's most iconic neighborhoods: Bucktown, Wicker Park and Lincoln Park. The development of Lincoln Yards presents a defining moment for Chicago to improve a vast, underutilized parcel of land to benefit residents, by bringing new residences and businesses, improved infrastructure and transportation, public parks, and economic opportunity to a revitalized riverfront—creating a new community where all of Chicago can live, work, and play.

About the Artist: Meet Merlot

Chicago based graffiti artist Merlot constantly pushes boundaries with her bold, colorful, well-crafted style. Known for her unique approach to letter forms and typography, Merlot created The Letters at Lincoln Yards with a traditional graffiti approach in mind, while also incorporating design elements inspired by the area's deep-rooted industrial past.

Discovering Art in Unexpected Places

The Letters project is the first step in a larger arts and culture initiative from Sterling Bay and the first in a series of curated installations that will spotlight local artists at Lincoln Yards.

The Letters at Lincoln Yards consists of twenty-six typographic murals located on various industrial surfaces throughout the site including garage doors, brick walls and corners of empty warehouses. Painted in bright, colorful hues, Sterling Bay commissioned the public art project to encourage visitors to the site to create their own scavenger hunt and discover art in unexpected places along the way.

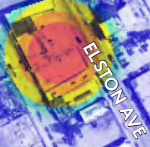

Sterling Bay recognizes and celebrates the rich tradition of street art and works actively with the City of Chicago's Mural Registry—a public art program championed by 2nd Ward Alderman Brian Hopkins— to catalogue all commissioned murals into the City's database of protected public art.
